

MEMORIES ON ICE

Staff photos by Danny Drake

A line of former Ice Capades performers gets a kick out of their reunion Monday at Boardwalk Hall, the building that hosted the show when it came to town from 1941 to 1981. About 100 former cast members gathered for the reunion in Atlantic City, where officials said the Ice Capades attracted thousands each summer with its dazzling performances, lavish costumes and complex choreography.

Bob Turk, of Palm Springs, Ca., looks over some of the old photos on display at Boardwalk Hall. He was the Ice Capade's producer from 1965 to its closing. Above right: Escorted at Monday's reunion by her daughter Kelly Kunik, Marjory Kunik, of Margate, skated from 1944 to 1948. She met her husband during the Ice Capades when he was an usher at what was then known as Convention Hall. At right: A photo on display from August 1940 shows when promoters placed 300-pound blocks of ice in the sand so show members could skate in bathing suits for a publicity shot.
